Subject: [REDACTED] Cafeteria

Feedback: We are now required to open our food containers when checking out. [REDACTED] (the checkout lady) informed me that it was new policy to check to see that no one is stealing food. If you are so worried about the few people who are stealing food, why don't you go back to the clear containers and not make the rest of us feel like we're being interrogated while paying for our food.

On a side note too, [REDACTED] bedside manner is not the most hospitable. She'll regularly let the checkout line build up while wrapping cookies nearby or from running to the back to check on prices for the specials of the day.
